What should voters know about your commitment to keeping everyone, including students with disabilities, safe in school?

My daughter is on the autism spectrum, and in her first few years of school, she had some severe sensory sensitivity and behavioral outbursts. This led to faculty needing to redirect her, mostly using positive alternatives, but sometimes using restraint. I have first-hand experience with this issue. I am proud to say that our school district has taken steps to remove restraint from our system and I will continue to advocate for that.
